

A-Level Sociology

Exam Board:	AQA
Preferred Entry Requirements:	5 GCSEs A* - C including maths and English
Coursework:	None
Examination:	At AS level students study the family, education and how sociologists research, crime and deviance and the media.
Is this the right course for me?	Yes if you have an interest in how society functions and why people behave as they do. You will study and debate issues such as 'Does the family benefit men and not women?', 'Is the education system unfair?', 'Why do people commit crime?' and 'Does the mass media stereo-type ethnic minorities?'. Students must be prepared to do additional reading and research to build upon the theories covered in lessons. A sociology A level will prove that you can critically assess points of view and have high levels of communication skills. You would be suited to further education or any job that requires an understanding of people.
