

Are you thinking of taking your child out of school in term time?

Legislation introduced in September 2013, means that Head Teachers can no longer authorise 10 days holiday during term time.

Leave of absence can now only be authorised by the Head Teacher if they are satisfied, that there are exceptional circumstances that warrants the granting of leave.

If your child has unauthorised absence from school, you could be fined and even have a criminal record.

Leave of absence request forms are available from your child's school
